Responding to slow load times and high error rates 11 years ago

We're working through some problems with high site latency and elevated error rates. The problem is more constrained than those we were dealing with last week. We will update as we gather more information and work toward a resolution.

Update (11:12a): We're pushing changes now to address this morning's problems. This may introduce some inconsistencies when you view your follower/following counts or when you attempt to follow another user.
