

All stories in Insider

This AI system locates drone pilots flying too close to airports

Scientists from Ben-Gurion University of the Negev have built an AI tool that finds drone pilots flying dangerously close ...

Thomas Macaulay 4 days ago

How the world is feeling right now, according to data

No one really knows how the events of the last few months will impact our future but research into our emotions can give ...

Andrea Hak 5 days ago

Drones and aerial vehicles are set to change our cities, but how?

Drones, personal flying vehicles, and air taxis may be part of our everyday life in the very near future. Drones and air taxis will create new means of mobility and transport routes. Drones will be used for surveillance, delivery and in the construction sector as it moves towards ...

The Conversation 5 days ago

Samsung's Galaxy Note 20 event will take place on August 5

Samsung today sent out 'invites' for its next Galaxy Unpacked event, when the company is expected to launch the Galaxy Note 20. Indeed, the company teases such in a short video posted with the announcement: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QvFjP2ivZFw> As previously rumored, the ...

Napier Lopez 5 days ago

Uber officially launches its grocery delivery service

I never appreciated food delivery services and workers as much as I did during the outset of the pandemic, but now there is another contender entering the fray: Uber. The rideshare giant today announced it had begun rolling out a grocery delivery service in a few Latin American ...

Napier Lopez 5 days ago

Amazon Prime Video finally rolls out user profiles globally

It's been a long time coming, but today Amazon is finally rolling out the ability for Prime Video users to create user profiles globally. The feature first launched in a few test markets earlier this year, but this is the first time it's becoming available for users throughout the ...

Napier Lopez 5 days ago

Dear Google, please let this Pixel 5 'leak' be fake

While we're still waiting for any confirmation of the Pixel 4a's announcement date, we're already starting to see alleged leaks of the upcoming Pixel 5. Case in point: today supposed renders of Google's upcoming flagship began to make the rounds... and it looks decidedly uninteresting. The ...

Napier Lopez 6 days ago

Facebook and Instagram will remind you to wear a mask atop your feed

Back in May, it seemed the number of new coronavirus cases was beginning to go down. Then, as states began to reopen (often against the advice of health officials), the number of new cases shot up dramatically -- now at record daily levels that can't be explained away by increased ...

Napier Lopez 10 days ago

You can now use (some) Olympus cameras as webcams

Olympus's cameras are facing an uncertain future after the company announced it would be selling its camera brand to Japan ...

Napier Lopez 10 days ago

India's Reliance Jio launches Zoom rival with 100 participant limit

India's biggest carrier Reliance Jio has officially launched its Zoom rival -- called JioMeet. The app is available across ...

Ivan Mehta 10 days ago

Europe's first Museum of Digital Art closes permanently due to coronavirus

It's sad times. Severely hit by the coronavirus pandemic, Zurich's Museum of Digital Art has revealed it will close for good ...

Mix 10 days ago

Samsung apparently just leaked the Galaxy Note 20 Ultra by accident

Someone at Samsung appears to have committed a whoopsie today: the company seems to have leaked the upcoming Galaxy Note ...

Napier Lopez 11 days ago

